Presently, only two Apple devices have a sensor. Both are also priced at a premium and feature the "Pro" moniker, so LiDAR is a niche feature for now. However, that doesn't mean software will be slow to catch on. Apple's exhaustive list of software development kits (SDKs) includes ARKit, which was updated to version 4.0 in June 2020.

What Is LiDAR, and How Will It Work on the iPhone?

Unix was created fifty years ago at Bell Labs, a research and development company owned by AT&T. Fast-forward to 1973 and Version 4 of Unix, which was rewritten in the C programming language. This made the operating system much more portable and easier to transfer to different hardware platforms.
